SUBJECT, PREDICATE, & COMPLEMENT: IDENTIFYING D.O. & I.O.  Grammar Review #3  Directions: In the sentences below, first bracket off all prepositional phrases. Then, label the simple predicate [P] and the simple subject [S]. After, put a box around the direct object (if there is one) and put a circle around the indirect object (if there is one).  REMEMBER: THE DIRECT OBJECT AND INDIRECT OBJECT CAN NEVER, EVER, EVER BE IN A PREPOSITIONAL PHRASE.  1. Bertha bought her boyfriend a bug zapper for his birthday.  2. Professor Englebert gives fascinating lectures on Monet, ballet, and tooth decay.  3. Fillmore invented a solar-powered ketchup and jelly packet.  4. For the Homecoming Dance, Carlos gave Darcia a lovely parsley corsage.  5. For an inexpensive decorative touch, Fruitsy licks and sticks Gummy Bears on her sweaters and pets.  6. Unger gave himself a pat on the back and injured a lung.  News.	Na	me:
Grammar Review #3  Directions: In the sentences below, first bracket off all prepositional phrases. Then, label the simple predicate [P] and the simple subject [S]. After, put a box around the direct object (if there is one) and put a circle around the indirect object (if there is one).  REMEMBER: THE DIRECT OBJECT AND INDIRECT OBJECT CAN NEVER, EVER, EVER BE IN A PREPOSITIONAL PHRASE.  1. Bertha bought her boyfriend a bug zapper for his birthday.  2. Professor Englebert gives fascinating lectures on Monet, ballet, and tooth decay.  3. Fillmore invented a solar-powered ketchup and jelly packet.  4. For the Homecoming Dance, Carlos gave Darcia a lovely parsley corsage.  5. For an inexpensive decorative touch, Fruitsy licks and sticks Gummy Bears on her sweaters and pets.  6. Unger gave himself a pat on the back and injured a lung.	Da	te:
<ul> <li>Directions: In the sentences below, first bracket off all prepositional phrases. Then, label the simple predicate [P] and the simple subject [S]. After, put a box around the direct object (if there is one) and put a circle around the indirect object (if there is one).  REMEMBER: THE DIRECT OBJECT AND INDIRECT OBJECT CAN NEVER, EVER, EVER BE IN A PREPOSITIONAL PHRASE.</li> <li>Bertha bought her boyfriend a bug zapper for his birthday.</li> <li>Professor Englebert gives fascinating lectures on Monet, ballet, and tooth decay.</li> <li>Fillmore invented a solar-powered ketchup and jelly packet.</li> <li>For the Homecoming Dance, Carlos gave Darcia a lovely parsley corsage.</li> <li>For an inexpensive decorative touch, Fruitsy licks and sticks Gummy Bears on her sweaters and pets.</li> <li>Unger gave himself a pat on the back and injured a lung.</li> </ul>
<ol> <li>predicate [P] and the simple subject [S]. After, put a box around the direct object (if there is one) and put a circle around the indirect object (if there is one).         REMEMBER: THE DIRECT OBJECT AND INDIRECT OBJECT CAN NEVER, EVER, EVER BE IN A PREPOSITIONAL PHRASE.     </li> <li>Bertha bought her boyfriend a bug zapper for his birthday.</li> <li>Professor Englebert gives fascinating lectures on Monet, ballet, and tooth decay.</li> <li>Fillmore invented a solar-powered ketchup and jelly packet.</li> <li>For the Homecoming Dance, Carlos gave Darcia a lovely parsley corsage.</li> <li>For an inexpensive decorative touch, Fruitsy licks and sticks Gummy Bears on her sweaters and pets.</li> <li>Unger gave himself a pat on the back and injured a lung.</li> </ol>		Grammar Review #3
<ol> <li>Bertha bought her boyfriend a bug zapper for his birthday.</li> <li>Professor Englebert gives fascinating lectures on Monet, ballet, and tooth decay.</li> <li>Fillmore invented a solar-powered ketchup and jelly packet.</li> <li>For the Homecoming Dance, Carlos gave Darcia a lovely parsley corsage.</li> <li>For an inexpensive decorative touch, Fruitsy licks and sticks Gummy Bears on her sweaters and pets.</li> <li>Unger gave himself a pat on the back and injured a lung.</li> </ol>	pr	edicate [P] and the simple subject [S]. After, put a box around the direct object (if there is one) and
<ol> <li>Professor Englebert gives fascinating lectures on Monet, ballet, and tooth decay.</li> <li>Fillmore invented a solar-powered ketchup and jelly packet.</li> <li>For the Homecoming Dance, Carlos gave Darcia a lovely parsley corsage.</li> <li>For an inexpensive decorative touch, Fruitsy licks and sticks Gummy Bears on her sweaters and pets.</li> <li>Unger gave himself a pat on the back and injured a lung.</li> </ol>		REMEMBER: THE DIRECT OBJECT AND INDIRECT OBJECT CAN NEVER, EVER, EVER BE IN A PREPOSITIONAL PHRASE.
<ol> <li>Fillmore invented a solar-powered ketchup and jelly packet.</li> <li>For the Homecoming Dance, Carlos gave Darcia a lovely parsley corsage.</li> <li>For an inexpensive decorative touch, Fruitsy licks and sticks Gummy Bears on her sweaters and pets.</li> <li>Unger gave himself a pat on the back and injured a lung.</li> </ol>	1.	Bertha bought her boyfriend a bug zapper for his birthday.
<ul><li>4. For the Homecoming Dance, Carlos gave Darcia a lovely parsley corsage.</li><li>5. For an inexpensive decorative touch, Fruitsy licks and sticks Gummy Bears on her sweaters and pets.</li><li>6. Unger gave himself a pat on the back and injured a lung.</li></ul>	2.	Professor Englebert gives fascinating lectures on Monet, ballet, and tooth decay.
<ul><li>5. For an inexpensive decorative touch, Fruitsy licks and sticks Gummy Bears on her sweaters and pets.</li><li>6. Unger gave himself a pat on the back and injured a lung.</li></ul>	3.	Fillmore invented a solar-powered ketchup and jelly packet.
pets.  6. Unger gave himself a pat on the back and injured a lung.	4.	For the Homecoming Dance, Carlos gave Darcia a lovely parsley corsage.
	5.
Name	6.	Unger gave himself a pat on the back and injured a lung.
Nama
Manage 1
Date:		te:

SUBJECT, PREDICATE, & COMPLEMENT: IDENTIFYING D.O. & I.O.

Grammar Review #3

Directions: In the sentences below, first bracket off all prepositional phrases. Then, label the simple predicate [P] and the simple subject [S]. After, put a box around the direct object (if there is one) and put a circle around the indirect object (if there is one).

REMEMBER: THE DIRECT OBJECT AND INDIRECT OBJECT CAN NEVER, EVER, EVER BE IN A PREPOSITIONAL PHRASE.

- 1. Bertha bought her boyfriend a bug zapper for his birthday.
- 2. Professor Englebert gives fascinating lectures on Monet, ballet, and tooth decay.
- 3. Fillmore invented a solar-powered ketchup and jelly packet.
- 4. For the Homecoming Dance, Carlos gave Darcia a lovely parsley corsage.
- 5. For an inexpensive decorative touch, Fruitsy licks and sticks Gummy Bears on her sweaters and pets.
- 6. Unger gave himself a pat on the back and injured a lung.